

Dear Collaborator,

we are running towards the end of this hard year and we would like to share with you an outlook of some important results achieved by Catalano, in order to consider the incoming 2011 scenario we expect.

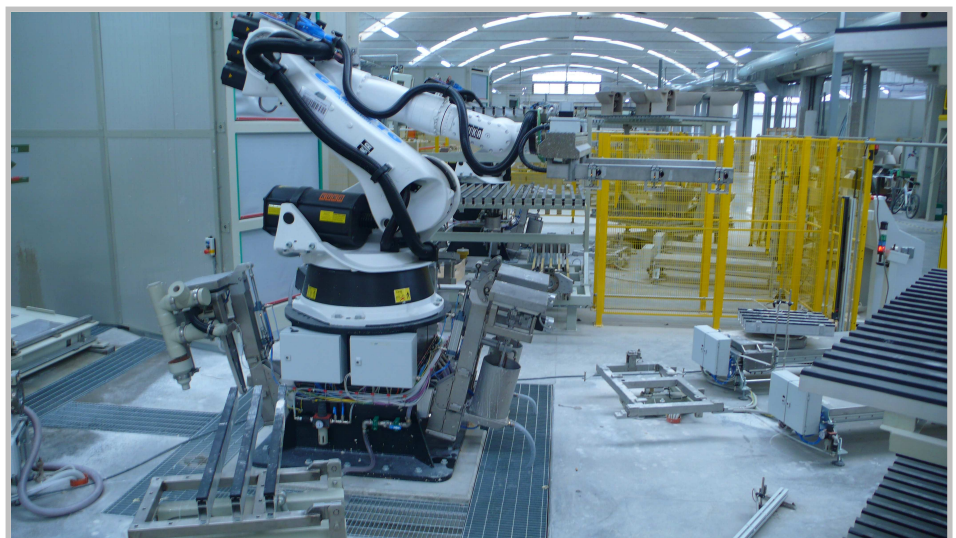

Catalano tough out the crisis

We are coming out of a global crisis that shocked all international markets; Catalano was able to absorb this impact without being overcome, counterbalancing its economic shape and showing a significant growth.

The choice of innovation

We strongly believe in our potential and we continue to invest both in product and process innovation. To improve more and more the standard quality, we have also heavily invested on automation. So now, we can proudly say Catalano is the most technologically advanced company in ceramic sanitary-ware manufacturing in the world. Zero environmental impact

We have also invested (and we'll continue to invest) in sustainability and environmental protection. We strongly believe that the future of industrial production in socially and technologically advanced countries, is having no impact on the environment.

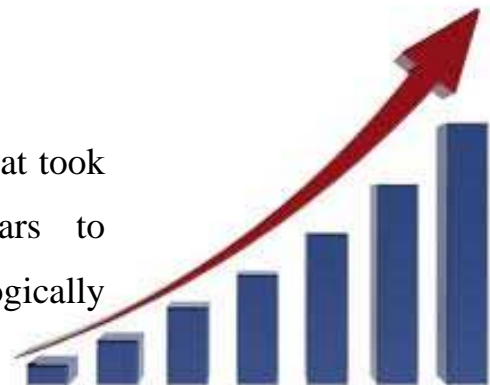

Our plant lodges an unique technology in Europe able to recycle the ceramic waste. Once crushed and separated from plastic and iron, this revolutionary process is able to transform the wastes into raw material 100% reusable for industrial purposes. The project is always developing with further improvements and technologies.

Furthermore, thanks also to its high-energy efficiency, this process is completely eco-friendly, because there are no residual: it means ZERO-ENVIRONMENTAL-IMPACT.

Catalano reliability

Year 2010 shows a new drive of growth for Catalano, that took also important and decisive choices for the years to come. Catalano's distributors can rely on a technologically advanced and innovation-oriented company.

Catalano is the ambassador of Made in Italy sanitary-ware around the world

Catalano's products are more and more selected for the most important and luxury projects in the world. Here you are some renderings of the new Long Beach resort, located in the wild and beautiful Mauritius Island.

Happy new year

We wish you a happy end and a profitable new 2011. Catalano will be more and more committed to strengthen its assets and its brand name all around the world.

Coming soon

Year 2011 will be full of novelties and good news for all Catalano's friends and partners.

Stay tuned!the best is going to come!
